About the survey

Government budget decisions – what taxes to levy, what services to provide, and how much debt to take on – have important consequences for all people in society. When governments provide information and meaningful channels for the public to engage in these decisions, we can better ensure public money is spent on public interests.

The Open Budget Survey (OBS) is the world's only independent, comparative and fact-based research instrument that uses internationally accepted criteria to assess public access to central government budget information; formal opportunities for the public to participate in the national budget process; and the role of budget oversight institutions, such as legislatures and national audit offices, in the budget process.

The survey helps local civil society assess and confer with their government on the reporting and use of public funds. This 8th edition of the OBS covers 120 countries.

Visit www.internationalbudget.org/open-budget-survey for more information, including the full OBS methodology, the 2021 Global and Regional Reports, findings for all surveyed countries, and the Data Explorer.

Transparency

This part of the OBS measures public access to information on how the central government raises and spends public resources. It assesses the online availability, timeliness, and comprehensiveness of eight key budget documents using 109 equally weighted indicators and scores each country on a scale of 0 to 100. A transparency score of 61 or above indicates a country is likely publishing enough material to support informed public debate on the budget.

Democratic Republic of Congo has a transparency score of 42 (out of 100).

What changed in OBS 2021?

Democratic Republic of Congo has increased the availability of budget information by:

- · Publishing the Mid-Year Review online.
- Publishing the Pre-Budget Statement and Citizens Budget online in a timely manner.
- Increasing the information provided in the Enacted Budget.

Recommendations

Democratic Republic of Congo should prioritize the following actions to improve budget transparency:

- Publish the Year-End Report (Loi portant Reddition des Comptes) on time (no earlier than October 30 or no later than October 31) and online.
- Publish the audit report (Annual report of the Court of Auditors) in due time (at the earliest on December 31 of FY+1 or at the latest on June 30 of FY+2) online.

- Publish the Executive's budget proposal (Projet de loi de finances) and the Enacted budget (Loi de Finances) online, including, among other things, the following additional information:

  - On the public debt: the interest rates that apply to the maturity profile of the debt; the internal or external nature of the debt; the composition of public debt at the end of the fiscal year. In addition: the nature of the interest rates (fixed or variable); the enforceability of the debt; the currency of the debt; the profile of creditors (bilateral institutions, multilateral institutions, commercial banks, central banks, etc.); the analysis of the risk associated with the debt and, if applicable, what the debt finances;
  - Alternative presentations of expenditure to illustrate the financial impact of policies on different groups of citizens (eg by gender, age, income or region);
  - Quasi-fiscal activities;
  - Financial and non-financial assets held by the government and expenditure arrears.
- Improve the comprehensiveness of the In-Year Reports (Etats de Suivi Budgétaire) by including actual expenditures by program, actual revenues by category (e.g., tax vs. non-tax) and individual source, and information related to the composition of the total actual debt outstanding.
- Improve the comprehensiveness of the Mid-Year Review (Rapport Semestriel d'Exécution Budgétaire) by including: updated expenditure estimates by administrative and functional classifications as well as by individual program, and updated revenue estimates by individual revenue source

Extent of opportunities for public participation in the budget process

Recommendations

Democratic Republic of Congo's Ministry of Finance has established public consultations during budget formulation but, to further strengthen public participation in the budget process, should also prioritize the following actions:

- Pilot mechanisms to monitor budget implementation.
- Establishment and publication of feedback on how the Ministry uses citizens' contributions following their consultations during the preparation (Budget Orientation Seminar and Budget Conferences) of the budget.
- Actively engage with vulnerable and underrepresented communities, directly or through civil society organizations representing them.

Democratic Republic of Congo's Parliament (the National Assembly and the Senate) has (through their Economic and Financial Commissions) established public hearings related to the approval of the annual budget, but should also prioritize the following actions:

- Allow members of the public or civil society organizations to testify during its hearings on the Audit Report.
- The establishment and publication of feedback on how it uses citizens' contributions following their consultations during the approval (review) of the budget.
- Actively engage with vulnerable and underrepresented communities, directly or through civil society organizations representing them.

Democratic Republic of Congo's Court of Accounts should prioritize the following actions to improve public participation in the budget oversight process:

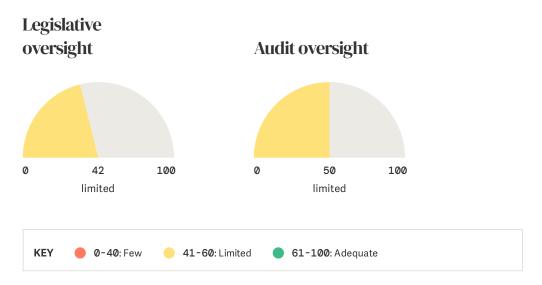

• Establish formal mechanisms for the public to assist in developing its audit program and to contribute to relevant audit investigations.

Budget Oversight

The OBS examines the role that legislatures and supreme audit institutions (SAIs) play in the budget process and the extent to which they provide oversight; each country is scored on a scale from 0 to 100 based on 18 equally weighted indicators. In addition, the survey collects supplementary information on independent fiscal institutions (see Box).

The legislature and supreme audit institution in Democratic Republic of Congo, together, provide limited oversight during the budget process, with a composite oversight score of 44 (out of 100). Taken individually, the extent of each institution's oversight is shown below:

Recommendations

Democratic Republic of Congo's Parliament provides limited oversight during the planning stage of the budget cycle and weak oversight during the implementation stage. To improve oversight of the budget, the following actions should be prioritized:

- Parliament should debate budget policy before the Executive's Budget Proposal is tabled and approve recommendations for the upcoming budget.
- Legislative committees should examine the Executive's Budget Proposal and publish reports with their analyses online.

- A legislative committee should examine in-year budget implementation and publish reports with their findings online.
- In practice, ensure Parliament is consulted before the executive shifts funds specified in the Enacted Budget between administrative units; spends any unanticipated revenue; or reduces spending due to revenue shortfalls during the budget year.
- A legislative committee should examine the Audit Report and publish a report with their findings online.

To strengthen the independence of, and improve audit oversight by, the Supreme Audit Institution (the Court of Accounts) of the DRC, the following actions are recommended:

- Ensure the Court of Accounts has adequate funding, including through timely execution of its budget, to perform its duties, as determined by an independent body (e.g., the legislature or judiciary).
- Ensure audit processes are reviewed by an independent agency.

The emerging practice of establishing independent fiscal institutions

Democratic Republic of Congo does not have an independent fiscal institution (IFI). IFIs are increasingly recognized as valuable independent and nonpartisan information providers to the Executive and/or Parliament during the budget process.

*These indicators are *not* scored in the Open Budget Survey.

Methodology

jjmpindu@gmail.com
