BY+1 = one year beyond the budget year

BY-1 = one year before the budget year

Please mark your answer by placing the appropriate letter in the box to the right of the question. For all answers marked “not applicable/other,” please provide a brief explanation indicating either why the answer choices provided are not applicable or why another response would be more appropriate.

The Executive’s Budget Proposal
Estimates for the Budget Year and Beyond
1. Does the executive’s budget or any supporting budget documentation present expenditures for the budget year that are classified by administrative unit (that is, by ministry, department, or agency)? <ol style="list-style-type: none"> a. All expenditures are classified by administrative unit. b. Expenditures are classified by administrative unit, but some small units are not shown separately. c. Expenditures are classified by administrative unit, but a significant number of units are not shown separately. d. No expenditures classified by administrative unit are presented. e. Not applicable/other (please comment). Citation and/or comment: The researcher marked this answer as “a”. The legal and formal requirement is to present by administrative unit, refer to all documents in Table 2. Peer Reviewer One Comment: A more appropriate response to this question would be “b” according to the Budget Guide, the detail of the administrative classification it is a question of judgment. There are a few cases where homogenous administrative units are subsumed under one administrative unit number. The Budget Guide referred to above is the official “budget guide” in Norwegian “budsjetveileder.” On the 26th May 2005 the Storting (parliament) passed a new set of appropriation regulations based on a proposal to the parliament (St.prp. nr. 48 (2004-2005), jf. Innst. S. nr. 187 (2004-2005). The new regulations came into force 1st January 2006 and replaced the previous regulations of 19th November 1959 with subsequent adjustments. The Budget Guide referred to is based on the new set of regulation and rules which the King and the Ministry of Finance have specified under the provisions of the appropriation regulations. See http://odin.dep.no/filarkiv/277989/Budsjetveileder-2006.pdf Peer Reviewer Two Comment: The appropriate response to this question is "a", as suggested by the respondent. Reviewer one's comment relates to the “budget guide,” an intended guide to the budget by the legislature, not the specific budget documents. Expenditures for all 18 departments can be found in the hyperlinks I have provided in table 2. Additional expenditures for smaller units can be found in http://www.statsbudsjettet.dep.no/2005/dokumenter/html/finprp/stprp-fin/kap7.htm. This table specifies the accounts for 2003, enacted 2004 budget, and the executive's proposal for 2005. IBP Comment: IBP editors chose answer “a” to maintain consistency of assumptions across countries.	a

2. Does the executive's budget or any supporting budget documentation present expenditures for the budget year that are classified by functional classification?

- a. All expenditures are classified by functional classification, and the categorization is compatible with international standards.
- b. All expenditures are classified by functional classification, but the categorization is not compatible with international standards.
- c. Some, but not all, expenditures are classified by function.
- d. No expenditures classified by function are presented.
- e. Not applicable/other (please comment).

Citation and/or comment:

The researcher marked this answer as "c." Functional classification is difficult in particular as regards transfers (subsidies) to the (private) sector business sector but also as regards infrastructure investments and health expenditures. There are a number of reasons for this. One major challenge is the decentralized structure and three levels of government and intergovernmental transfers and the involvement of more than one level in any type of expenditure. The answer to the question of compatibility with international standards will depend on the level of aggregation. There may be compatibility at a higher level but not at lower levels.

Peer Reviewer One Comment:

Peer Reviewer Two Comment: A more appropriate response to this question would be "b." Table 2 provides links to expenditures by Administrative units which again breaks the expenditures down by function. These functions are in some cases consistent with the IMF standards (table 6.2, GFS manual), but not in all cases. There are no separate tables to provide a breakdown consistent with the IMF standards, however.

IBP Comment: IBP editors chose answer "c" to maintain consistency of assumptions across countries.

3. Does the executive’s budget or any supporting budget documentation present expenditures for the budget year that are classified by economic classification? <ol style="list-style-type: none"> a. All expenditures are classified by economic classification, and the categorization is compatible with international standards. b. All expenditures are classified by economic classification, but the categorization is not compatible with international standards. c. Some, but not all, expenditures are classified by economic classification. d. No expenditures classified by economic classification are presented. e. Not applicable/other (please comment). Citation and/or comment: The researcher marked this answer as “a.” Main budget documents are classified mainly by the economic grouping used in the national accounts and national budget (See for example table starting page 111 in Main Publication of St prp nr 1.) Peer Reviewer One Comment: Peer Reviewer Two Comment: A more appropriate response to this question would be “d.” I have not been able to locate a detailed account of economic classification anywhere in the main budget document which is in accordance with the IMF standards (table 6.1 GFS manual). The table starting at 111 in the main document contains breakdown by administrative unit and then by programs/function. IBP Comment: IBP editors chose answer “c” to maintain consistency of assumptions across countries.	c
4. Does the executive’s budget or any supporting budget documentation present expenditures for individual programs for the budget year? <ol style="list-style-type: none"> a. Program-level data are presented for all expenditures. b. Program-level data are presented for at least two-thirds of, but not all, expenditures. c. Program-level data are presented, but for less than two-thirds of expenditures. d. No program-level data are presented. e. Not applicable/other (please comment). Citation and/or comment: Difficult to answer in the Norwegian context. The term “program” is not precisely defined in our context. Peer Reviewer One Comment: Peer Reviewer Two Comment:	a

5. In the executive's budget or any supporting budget documentation, are estimates of the aggregate level of expenditure presented for a multi-year period (at least two years beyond the budget year)? <ol style="list-style-type: none"> Yes, multi-year estimates of aggregate expenditure are presented. No, multi-year estimates of aggregate expenditure are not presented. Not applicable/other (please comment). Citation and/or comment: The issue in Norway now is how much state oil revenue and petroleum fund profits should be used in the budget. There is a broadly defined target for that. The petroleum fund is the accumulated surpluses of the state budget. A task force on multi-year budgeting suggested that three year budget projections be presented. The projections were presented for the first time in the executive's budget for 2005. A proposal on multi year binding budget decisions for certain budget items was turned down by the Storting. Peer Reviewer One Comment: Peer Reviewer Two Comment: The projections are provided in table 11.1, main document (st. prp. Nr 1.), p. 103.	a

Yes, multi-year estimates are presented, but only for a portion of one or more of the expenditure classifications (such as some functions, or some administrative units) and/or for only some individual programs. No, multi-year estimates are presented for aggregate expenditure only, or they are not presented at all. Not applicable/other (please comment). Citation and/or comment: The researcher marked this answer as "c." Main budget documents. The multi year budget is presented by ministry vote and a few functional categories under each ministry. Peer Reviewer One Comment: Peer Reviewer Two Comment: A more appropriate answer is "a". The projections are provided in table 11.1, main document (st. prp. Nr 1.), p. 103. The projections are presented for each administrative unit from 2006 until 2008. IBP Comment: IBP editors chose answer "a" to maintain consistency of assumptions across countries.	a

All sources of non-tax revenue are identified individually. b. Sources of non-tax revenue amounting to at least two-thirds of, but not all, non-tax revenues are identified individually. c. 65. Are citizens able in practice to obtain financial information on expenditures for individual programs in a format that is more highly disaggregated than that which appears in the executive's budget proposal if they request it (for example, from a ministry or agency)?

- a. In practice, highly disaggregated information is available to the public for all programs except those considered related to national security or military intelligence.
- b. In practice, highly disaggregated information is available to the public for programs representing at least two-thirds of, but not all, expenditures.

- a. In practice, no highly disaggregated expenditure information is available.
- b. Not applicable/other (please comment).

Citation and/or comment:

The researcher marked this answer as “c.” Very difficult question to assess – depends on the definition of “highly disaggregated.”

Peer Reviewer One Comment:

Peer Reviewer Two Comment: A more appropriate response to this question would be “a.” The main budget document allocates funds to counties (“fylker”) and smaller regional governments (“fylkeskommuner”) and these transfers is the main revenue source for these two local branches of government. The “fylkeskommune” is responsible for high schools, and most noticeably public health care including hospitals. Budgets and account statements which detail the expenditures for both local branches of government is readily available. This will include disaggregated data for at unit levels such as per hospital, or per school.

IBP Comment: IBP editors chose answer “a” to maintain consistency of assumptions across countries.

66. Are citizens able in practice to obtain non-financial information related to expenditures (for example, number of beneficiaries, number of persons employed by the program, etc.) for individual programs in a format that is more highly disaggregated than that which appears in the executive's budget proposal if they request it from a ministry or agency?

- a. In practice, highly disaggregated non-financial information is available to the public for all programs except those considered related to national security or military intelligence.
- b. In practice, highly disaggregated non-financial information is available to the public for programs representing at least two-thirds of, but not all, expenditures.
- c. In practice, highly disaggregated non-financial information is available to the public for programs representing less than two-thirds of expenditures.
- d. In practice, no highly disaggregated non-financial expenditure information is available.
